Coming soon: ONLINE LAUNCH of the Urbino 18 hydrogen bus and #SolarisTalks 2022

Bolechowo, 05.09.2022

Solaris would like to invite you to the official online launch of the Urbino 18 hydrogen bus and to a discussion about e-mobility with experts from a host of different countries. For all those interested, both events will be streamed online.

On 14 September, Solaris will present its articulated Urbino 18 bus to the public for the very first time. The official launch of the latest Solaris bus will be preceded by the international #SolarisTalks 2022 conference.

The event will begin at 9:00 am (CET), and the first part will be an international e-mobility #SolarisTalks 2022 conference. During this meeting our experts from the Technical Office and members of the Solaris Management Board will share their knowledge and experience in implementing e-mobility solutions in various European towns and cities, developing hydrogen technologies and offering advanced after-sales services.

Adrian Zinke, Head of Technical Department at German operator Regionalverkehr Köln and our special guest speaker at the #SolarisTalks conference, will share his experience as an operator in deploying and operating hydrogen buses as part of Cologne's public transport system.

These talks about e-mobility and cutting-edge technologies will prepare the participants for the Main Event of the day, the world premiere of the Urbino 18 hydrogen bus, planned for noon (12:00 CET). This will be the first opportunity ever to see Solaris's newest product live as well as to learn more about its technical aspects and take a closer look at its innovative design.

Both events will be live streamed at www.solarisbus.com

See you soon!
